Modern Slavery Supplier Information

Haben does not complete individual modern slavery questionnaires. This document is provided to assist stakeholders assessing Haben's modern slavery framework and should be read in conjunction with our annual Modern Slavery Statement.

About Haben

Haben is an Australian property investor and manager. Haben is a reporting entity under the Modern Slavery Act (Cth) and publishes an annual Modern Slavery Statement outlining our approach to identifying, assessing and addressing modern slavery risks within out operations and supply chains.

Our position on modern slavery risks

Haben recognises that modern slavery risks may exist within the direct or indirect operations of all organisations, particularly those with complex domestic and global supply chains. Accordingly, Haben does not represent that modern slavery risks can be completely eliminated, nor that contractual commitments alone can prevent modern slavery from occurring.

We adopt a risk-based approach focused on identifying, assessing, mitigating and monitoring modern slavery risks, while supporting appropriate remediation where adverse impacts are identified.

While Haben is not aware of any instances of modern slavery within our operations or supply chains, we acknowledge that residual risk may exist and remain committed to continuous improvement in our due diligence and risk management processes.

Governance & risk management

Haben has established governance processes to support the management of modern slavery risk, including:

- Publication of an annual Modern Slavery Statement
- Board and executive oversight of modern slavery risk management
- Integration of modern slavery considerations into our risk management framework
- Ongoing review and continuous improvement of our approach

Supplier expectations & due diligence

Haben seeks to reduce modern slavery risk through a range of due diligence and supplier engagement activities, including:

- Modern slavery provisions incorporated into supplier contracts
- Supplier Code of Conduct that outlines our expectations regarding ethical business conduct and human rights
- Risk based assessment and engagement with suppliers in higher-risk sectors or services
- Ongoing monitoring and review of identified risks within our sphere of influence
- Escalation and remediation processes where potential concerns are identified

Awareness & training

Haben provides modern slavery awareness training to employees to improve their understanding of modern slavery risks and indicators, reporting and escalation pathways, ethical procurement practices and individual responsibilities in identifying and responding to concerns.

Commitment to continuous improvement

Haben acknowledges that addressing modern slavery requires ongoing vigilance and engagement.

Our objective is not to declare an absence of risk, but to maintain effective governance, due diligence and supplier engagement processes that reduce the likelihood of modern slavery occurring within our operations and supply chains and support remediation where risks are identified.

Further information

Please refer to Haben's publicly available Modern Slavery Statement for additional information regarding our modern slavery governance, risk assessment, due diligence and continuous improvement activities. This document is reviewed annually following publication of Haben's Modern Slavery Statement and may be updated at any time.
